PVR-Inox makes big BO return with blockbusters

Growth in avg ticket price, merger synergy bode well for multiplex operator

LOVISHA DARAD
New Delhi, 30 August

A series of blockbuster releases in recent weeks has drawn investor attention towards PVR-Inox. On the stock exchanges, shares of the multiplex operator have soared by 16 per cent in a month, in contrast to the 1.6 per cent drop in the S&P BSE Sensex.

Analysts, too, have grown optimistic about the stock's fortunes in the near term, owing to the robust box office (BO) collections of movies such as Gadar 2, Jailer, and OMG 2 (collectively amounting to ₹1,370 crore in global BO collections), a healthy cinematic pipeline, and the realisation of merger synergies between PVR and Inox.

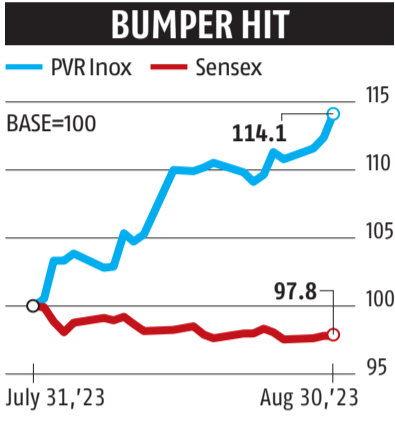

"The July-September quarter (second quarter, or Q2) of 2023-24 (FY24) witnessed a strong start, with movies like Oppenheimer, Barbie, Mission: Impossible - Dead Reckoning Part One, Gadar 2, OMG 2, and Jailer performing well at the BO. With more movies in the pipeline for 2023, PVR-Inox is likely to benefit from big-ticket releases as audiences return to cinemas," says Deepak Jasani, head of retail research at HDFC Securities.

Siddhesh Mehta, a research analyst at SAMCO Securities, reiterates a bullish stance on the stock, asserting that the resurgence in footfall, growth in average ticket price, merger synergies, and positive Q2 outlook bode well for PVR-Inox.

Raking in profits

According to latest reports, the Sunny Deol-starrer Gadar 2 has amassed a gross BO collection of ₹604.6 crore worldwide, while OMG 2 and Jailer collected ₹201 crore and ₹564.3 crore worldwide, respectively. Approximately six more movies are scheduled to be released in the remaining part of the second quarter, including Kushi, Jawan, The Nun II, SRI, The Great Indian Family, and Salaar.

In the April-June (first quarter, or Q1) of FY24, films from regional, Bollywood, and Hollywood industries performed well, in contrast to the previous year (Q1 of 2022-23, or FY23) when footfall recovery was primarily driven by regional films like K.G.F. Chapter 2 and RRR.

PVR-Inox's revenue grew by 14 per cent quarter-on-quarter (QoQ) in Q1FY24, with the average ticket price (ATP) and food and beverage spending per patron increasing by 3 per cent and 9.2 per cent QoQ, respectively.

Screen economics also remained robust in Q1, despite lower occupancy levels (25 per cent in FY23 compared to the pre-pandemic occupancy of 32 per cent). Analysts at JM Financial believe that PVR-Inox managed to offset the impact of reduced occupancies through higher ATP, increased spend per head (SPH), and reduced operating expenses per screen. Looking ahead, the management indicated that the accumulation of ATP synergies and SPH will manifest in the upcoming quarters if big-budget movies perform well in Q2FY24.

In a recent note, UBS analysts estimated a 17 per cent/15 per cent QoQ rise in both revenue and earnings before interest, tax, depreciation, and amortisation (Ebitda) for Q2FY24, alongside a 10 per cent increase in screen addition costs.

"The frequency of movie releases across languages is likely to pick up around mid-October 2023 for the festival season, following a slight lull during the first two weeks of October 2023. We believe that a substantial number of Bollywood movie releases during this period will favour PVR-Inox," the brokerage firm added, maintaining a 'buy' rating on the stock, with a target price (TP) of ₹2,150 per share.

Meanwhile, ICICI Securities has upgraded its revenue, adjusted Ebitda, and profit after tax estimates for PVR-Inox for FY24/2024-25E by 15 per cent/7 per cent, 48 per cent/12 per cent, and 62 per cent/20 per cent, respectively. "The stock had corrected meaningfully from its historical multiples due to investor concerns regarding the relevance of movie exhibition amidst the over-the-top disruption. We believe these concerns are unwarranted and maintain a 'buy' call," the brokerage firm added, setting a TP of ₹2,240 per share.

New tax norms favour employees living in employer accommodation

Reduction in salary percentage considered requisite value; the introduction of inflation-linked cap will reduce taxable income

BINDISHA SARANG

The Central Board of Direct Taxes (CBDT), in a recent notification, modified Rule 3 of the Income-Tax (I-T) Rules, 1961, which deals with rent-free accommodation offered by employers to employees. These changes follow the amendment to the Finance Act, 2023, for calculating perquisites related to concessional housing. A perquisite is an emolument or benefit attached to an office or position paid in addition to salary or wages. These new norms will come into effect from September 1, 2023.

Employees who benefit from rent-free accommodation should pay heed to these new regulations, especially if they are in the higher salary brackets. Says Dipen Mittal, deputy general manager, Taxmann, "The revisions in the computation of perquisite value for rent-free accommodation offer a more accurate reflection of real-world conditions."

Understanding rent-free accommodation

It is a residential arrangement allotted to an employee at zero or minimal rent. Says Abhinav Jain, manager, CNK RK, "Rent-free accommodation can include a flat, guest house, hotel, service apartment, caravan, mobile home, and more. It is valued as a perquisite for calculating the salary according to Rule 3 of the I-T Rules, 1961." Says Prateek Goyal, partner, MV Kini, "Though there is no rental cost, this benefit is added to an employee's income and taxed."

Key aspects of new norms

Several factors influence the taxable value of rent-free accommodation.

HRA OR RFA: WHICH OPTION SHOULD YOU GO FOR?

Both House Rent Allowance (HRA) and Rent Free Accommodation (RFA) are generally part of the employee's CTC (cost-to-company), depending on company policy

The major difference is that in the case of HRA, the benefit given to the employee is a cash component and the employee may or may not go for rental accommodation in the place of his employment

RFA is a benefit given in kind to the employee, whose value needs to be added to the employee's salary as a perquisite, subject to valuation rules

To evaluate between the two options, consider factors like whether the employee would occupy rented premises or owns a residential unit, how much is the component of HRA vis-a-vis the value of the RFA, etc

Source: RSM India

These include the employee's salary, the property's location, whether it is furnished, and whether it is owned by the employer or rented.

The perquisite value for residents of large cities is 10 per cent of salary (down from the earlier 15 per cent). For medium-sized cities, it is 7.5 per cent (reduced from 10 per cent), and for small cities, it is 5 per cent (compared to 7.5 per cent earlier). The categorisation of cities has been updated. Cities with a population of over 40 lakh are now considered large cities (up from 25 lakh). Cities with a population of up to 15 lakh are now small cities. And those with a population exceeding 15 lakh but up to 40 lakh are now classified as medium-sized cities. The population data used for the classification of cities is now based on the 2011 census, and not the 2001 census used previously.

An inflation-linked cap has been introduced for cases where the employee is provided the same accommodation for more than a year.

The impact

Employees occupying rent-free accommodation could see a drop in their taxable perquisite value. Says Suresh Surana, founder, RSM India, "The revised rules will benefit taxpayers. The reduced percentages will reduce the perquisite value, and thereby the employee's taxable income."

Further, the cost inflation index will ensure that taxpayers are not subjected to excess tax in case of a large increase in their salary. Says Mittal, "From Assessment Year (AY) 2025-26 onwards, the perquisite value cannot exceed the value of the previous year adjusted by the cost inflation index." In short, this will enable such employees to get a bit more money in their hands.

Adds Jain, "The new norms affect employees who live in cities that have a higher population, both through the reclassification of limits, and through the changes in percentages for valuing the perquisite."

Key points to note

Perquisite valuation of accommodation provided earlier will be done until August 31, 2023, using the old rates. The new rates will apply from September 1, 2023. Says Mittal, "Both employees and employers must factor in these changes when computing the perquisite value for AY 2024-25."

Those who receive a House Rent Allowance (HRA) should note that this allowance and rent-free accommodation are mutually exclusive benefits. Says Archit Gupta, chief executive officer, Clear, "If an employee receives HRA, she is not eligible for rent-free accommodation."
